All publications of the Indiana Historical Society are sent free to its members. Join the society.

The Indiana Magazine of History is published by the Department of History of Indiana University, with the aid of the Indiana Historical Society and the Indiana State Library. The purpose of the Magazine is to foster an interest in the history of the State, and it invites the co-operation of all persons and societies to whom this object appeals. Its editors solicit from any source the contribution of historical notes and articles dealing with Indiana history. The editors and contributors receive no pay for their services. It is the aim of the editors to make the Magazine popular in its appeal, while at the same time fostering accuracy and sound historical methods.

"Six quarterly publications devoted to history, archaeology, or genealogy are issued in the Old Northwest. The best of these from the standpoint of scientific history is the Indiana Magazine of History published by the Department of History of Indiana University in co-operation with the Indiana State Historical Society, and the Indiana State Library, and edited by Dr. Logan Esarey."—Mississippi Valley Historical Review, June, 1914.

"The Indiana Magazine of History continues to hold the premier place among historical periodicals of the Old Northwest in editorial workmanship and qualities of papers."—Mississippi Valley Historical Review, June, 1915.

Editor of the Indiana Magazine of History, Bloomington, Indiana.

"Prof. Logan Esarey, of Indiana University, has written the History of Indiana from its earliest exploration to 1918. No man in the middle west is better equipped to perform this splendid task for the Hoosier commonwealth. The work is scholarly in every way. The Indiana people interested in the history of the State and all students of history everywhere are under a debt of gratitude to Professor Esarey for his gathering together so many of the materials for a most attractive history of the development of the State."
